EXPLORATION & MAPPING OF THE WORLD

- EXPLANATION OF COLOURING
- DETAILED TOPOGRAPHICAL MAPS, from exact trigonometrical work
 - TOPOGRAPHICAL MAPS, from surveys less exact in detail
 - DETAILED GEOGRAPHICAL MAPS, fairly reliable throughout, compiled from numerous observations and measurements
 - GEOGRAPHICAL MAPS, many areas only approximate and sketched from single itineraries and reports
 - PRACTICALLY UNEXPLORED, any existing maps being mostly hypothetical

PRONUNCIATION OF GEOGRAPHICAL NAMES

THE object of this list is, with the aid of a simple system of phonetic re-spelling, to approximately reproduce the correct pronunciation of each name. For this purpose the vowel sounds in the re-spelt names have the following values :

a as in father.	ë as in her (French eu, œu ; German ö).	ī as in time.	ow as in cow.
ā „ mate.	ē „ feet (German ü).	o „ pot.	u „ tub.
â „ all.	i „ pin.	ō „ mote.	ū „ tube.
e „ ten.		oo „ room.

The consonants have their normal English sounds ; but the following combinations have been used to bring out the sounds of certain letters in other languages :

- ch has always the sound of ch in church.
- ch represents the guttural sound heard in the Celtic or Scots loch, the Irish lough, the German Bach, the Spanish j in Jerez, the Greek letter χ, and in several Slav and Oriental languages.
- g is always hard, as in gate.
- ñ represents the French nasal sound heard in on, or in the Portuguese word são.
- zh has the sound of s in pleasure.

The syllable on which the tonic accent or stress of the voice falls is marked by an acute accent (') in the re-spelt name. The accents shown on the original words form part of the true spelling of the names.
